

1.2

Hello and goodbye

Worksheet

- A When you start a conversation try to reply in a way that develops the conversation.

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|---|
| 1 How are you? | ► Fine thanks. And you? You're looking well. |
| 2 Nice to see you again. | ► Nice to see you too. How are you? |
| 3 It's been a long time, hasn't it. | ► Yes, I think we last met two years ago in Manila. |
| 4 Nice weather today, isn't it. | ► Yes, lovely. I hope it stays like this for the weekend. |
| 5 Terrible weather, isn't it. | ► Yes, awful. I think it's rained every day since I arrived. |
| 6 That's a nice shirt/blouse. | ► Thanks. I bought it from Harrods. |
| 7 This coffee's a bit weak. | ► Yes, it is, isn't it. Not like the coffee you get in Italy. |
| 8 Did you get that report I sent you? | ► Yes, I did, thanks. It was very useful. |

Now cover the replies with a piece of paper. Start conversations with a partner and continue naturally for a few lines.

- B It's Monday morning. Walk around. Say hello to your colleagues.

- C A host and a visitor are having a drink in the bar after a successful business meeting. The visitor is flying back to Tokyo tomorrow. Study this model and write down two or three phrases you might hear.

Visitor

- 1 Start a 'leaving' dialogue
- 3 Say why you must leave
- 5 Give more information
- 7 Thank the host for his/her help
- 9 Make a second reference to leaving
- 11 Refer to the next meeting and say goodbye

Host

- 2 Reply to the visitor
- 4 Show interest in the visitor's plans
- 6 Make a final reference to business
- 8 Reply – say it's been a pleasure
- 10 Wish the visitor a good trip and send your regards to someone

Match phrases a–k below to the stages 1–11 above.

- a Is that the time? I guess I should be going.
- b It's been nice meeting you again. Have a good trip, and give my regards to your wife.
- c Really? What time do you get there?
- d Oh, so soon?
- e I'm afraid so, I've got a long day tomorrow – I'm flying back to Tokyo.
- f Well, I really must go now.
- g Well, thank you very much for coming. I think we had a very useful meeting.
- h Around six in the evening local time, and then I have to catch a train.
- i Thanks. I'll do that. See you next month in Hamburg. Bye.
- j Yes, I agree, the meeting was very productive. And thanks very much for your help. I really appreciate it.
- k Not at all. It's been a pleasure.

- D Work with a new partner. You are in an airport lounge. You see someone you know. Start and end a conversation.