

Student A: Customer

You are entertaining some important clients next Saturday, and you want to take them to The Lucky Lobster – the best restaurant in town.

Call 1

Make a call to the restaurant.

- You want to book a table for four people next Saturday at 8 o'clock.
- There may be one extra person. Can you let them know on Saturday afternoon?
- Do they have a special 'Dish of the Day' on the menu next Saturday?

Next Sunday morning, after the meal ...

Call 2

You enjoyed your meal and drinks at The Lucky Lobster last night. This morning you checked the VISA receipt in your jacket pocket and it says £280. You are sure the meal cost a lot less than this, but you can't find the bill. Call the restaurant.

The same day, a few hours later ...

Call 3

You are now at the airport and your plane leaves in 30 minutes. You can't find your diary. Call the restaurant – maybe you left it there. If they have your diary give them your name and address so they can send it to you.

Student B: Manager

You are the manager of The Lucky Lobster – the best restaurant in town. Notice the following information from your bookings schedule and fill in the 'Dish of the Day':

Saturday

7:30 – 11:00 p.m. Two football teams booked.

Only one free table (four people).

Dish of the Day: _____

Call 1

Receive a call from a customer who wants to book a table.

Next Sunday morning, after the meal ...

Call 2

Receive another phone call from the customer. You remember this person from last night. On his/her table they ordered a lot of expensive drinks after their meal.

The same day, a few hours later ...

Call 3

Receive another phone call. It is the same customer, with a problem. Help in any way you can. Have a pen ready to take the customer's name and address if necessary.