

Easilife and Novex: Student AWorksheet

You are the Sales Director of Easilife Office Furniture. Your company manufactures and supplies office furniture. Your address is York House, 97 Cannon Street, London EC4 5AD. Your partner's company sells computers.

You are going to exchange correspondence with your partner because you are interested in each other's products. Before you start, look at the left column to see the whole sequence.

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1 Enquiry
You are thinking about buying some new computers. | Write a letter to the Sales Director of Novex Computer Solutions to ask for general information about their computers. Their address is 34 Salisbury Road, Milton Keynes, MK4 8KP. (Use the full layout of a business letter in this first letter.) |
| 2 Reply to an enquiry
Novex are interested in your products as well. | Reply to Novex's letter, enclosing some brochures, price lists etc. You know the name of their Sales Director, so use it at the start of your letter. |
| 3 Request for a quotation
You're interested in their computers. | Write an e-mail to Novex, asking for a quotation for some specific products (for example: eight computers). You may think of other questions. |
| 4 Quotation
Be positive and helpful. You might have a new customer. | Write a fax to Novex. Give them a quotation. State your terms of sale: price, any discounts (e.g. prompt payment), delivery time. Deal with any other questions in Novex's last e-mail. |
| 5 Counter-proposal
You want the computers, but maybe you can get better terms. | Send an e-mail to Novex, making a counter-proposal. For example, you may want a better price, a larger discount or a shorter delivery time. |
| 6 Reply to a counter-proposal
You cannot give Novex what they want, but make a small concession to get the business. | Reply by e-mail. Begin by apologizing for the delay in replying, then tell them that you can't accept their counter-proposal. However, you are prepared to offer something (less than they want). |
| 7 Order
You've decided to buy the computers. | Their reply is acceptable and you now want to make an order. Write a short letter to Novex to send with your order form. |
| 8 Dispatch advice
Let Novex know you've sent the goods. | Write an e-mail to Novex. Thank them for their order and tell them that the goods were sent this morning. |
| 9 Complaint
You have a problem. | The computers have arrived! However, one of them has a small fault. Also, there is a mistake on the invoice. Write an e-mail to Novex. |
| 10 Reply to a complaint
Deal with their problem. | Reply by e-mail. Apologize for the damaged furniture. Ask Novex to return the piece, and say you will send a replacement immediately. Apologize and give a reason for the mistake in the invoice – say you will send a new one. |